CHOOSE YOUR PROGRAMME:

GEOPOLITICAL STUDIES (GPS)

The programme seeks to explore the dynamic relationship between international politics and human geography, focussing on essential theories, thinkers and regions. It combines the strengths of the Institute of Political Studies' strongest departments, Political Geography and Security Studies to create a unique opportunity for you to focus on a key aspect of today's political studies.

You will be encouraged to make connections between different fields of study, learning to combine a global perspective with attention to detail and local interests. This programme is an excellent stepping stone in developing an academic career in the field of Political Science, as well as a valuable source of analytical skills and practical background knowledge that can be applied in professional life.

INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL STUDIES (IEPS)

The programme seeks to investigate contemporary political, economic and social issues from a multidisciplinary perspective. You will deal with the nature of the economic objectives of agents, institutions of power, emergence of conflicts, social organisation and attempts at cooperation. It will offer you ways of analysing and understanding social, economic and political phenomena in globalised societies underpinned by the PPE (Philosophy, Politics and Economics) model of curricula.

You will also be expected to master the principles of modern non-conventional economic thinking and be able to apply them in political decision-making at the level of supra-national institutions, states, regional governments, corporations, firms, political parties and groups of citizens.

MASTER IN INTERNATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES (MISS)

The programme will deepen your understanding of various international security topics, including conflict resolution, security organisations, regional complexes, terrorism, peace-keeping, energy policy or human security. It respects the multidisciplinary dimension of contemporary security studies but is firmly rooted in the international political aspects of the field. The students will be introduced to the theoretical foundations and empirical realities of the discipline structured around the following modules: strategic and conflict studies, regional security, European and Transatlantic security and security and technology. The courses cover a wide range of security issues associated with the traditional domains as well as reflecting new agendas dynamically evolving in the space or cyber realms.

Graduates will be prepared to pursue careers in security-related posts in government offices and public administration, international organizations, NGOs and transnational corporations.

MASTER IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS (MAIN)

You will gain the knowledge and analytical skills to understand and explain the international context of politics, economics and security. The programme will help you understand how international and European politics work, and the challenges faced by states as well as business and societal actors in the globalized world. You will study how international conflicts can be productively transformed into cooperation. You will improve your analytical capabilities, abstract and critical thinking, communication and language skills.

Our graduates become highly valued experts in national administrations and diplomatic services, European and international institutions, transnational corporations and NGOs, the media, think-tanks, political parties, and academia.

WHERE WILL YOU STUDY?

FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCES (FSV UK)

FSV UK is part of one of the oldest universities in the world, Charles University in Prague, which was founded in 1348 by the Holy Roman Emperor Charles IV. Shortly after its creation in 1990, it became a regional centre of teaching and research. FSV UK offers some of the highest quality Bachelor's, Master's and PhD degree programmes in Central and Eastern Europe. Many of our alumni continue their studies at top universities abroad or they succeed in competitions for highly qualified jobs. FSV UK has around 4,000 full-time students. Approximately 200 of them are enrolled in one of our prestigious and fully accredited English language degree programmes.

INSTITUTE OF POLITICAL STUDIES (IPS)

All programmes are based at the Institute of Political Studies (IPS) FSV UK. It offers a complete university education in political science, international relations and security studies. It takes a very active part in research and regularly organises international conferences in its field.

HOW MUCH IS THE TUITION FEE?

6,000 EUR per year for all the programmes.

ANY SCHOLARSHIP POSSIBILITIES?

FSV UK directly administers university scholarships for students from developing and transition countries. These scholarships offer students a 50% waiver of school fees and a one-off lump sum payment towards living costs. Students can also apply for scholarships NOT administered by FSV UK.
