Beethoven rose at dawn and wasted little time getting down to work. (26) His breakfast was coffee, which he prepared him with great care – he determined that there should be sixty beans per cup, and he often counted them out one by one for a precise dose. (27) Than he sat at his desk and worked until 2:00 or 3:00, taking the occasional break to walk outdoors, which aided his creativity. After a midday dinner, Beethoven embarked on a long, vigorous walk. (28) He always carried a pencil and a couple of sheets of music paper in his pocket, to have recorded chance musical thoughts. (29) Evenings were often spent with company or at the theatre, since in winter he preferred to stay at home and read. Supper was usually a simple affair - a bowl of soup and some leftovers from dinner. (30) He rarely worked on his music in the evening, and he retired early, going to bed at 10:00 at the later.
